

PHILOSOPHIA CHRISTI

EDITOR'S INTRODUCTION	CRAIG HAZEN	265
ARTICLES
Non-Identity Theodicy	VINCE VITALE	269
Creatio Ex Nihilo : A Solution to the Problem of the Necessity of Creation and Divine Aseity	JUSTIN J. DAELEY	291
Why Christians Should Not Be Kaneans about Freedom	MICHAEL D. BERTRAND AND JACK MULDER, JR.	315
Craig, Anti-Platonism, and Objective Morality	R. SCOTT SMITH	331
Robust Ethics and the Autonomy Thesis: A Reply to Erik Wielenberg	MATTHEW FLANNAGAN	345
How Wolterstorff's Defense of Same-Sex Marriage Violates His Theory of Justice: Philosophical Note on Wolterstorff's Argument for Same-Sex Marriage	TAPIO PUOLIMATKA	363
The Argument from Reason, and Mental Causal Drainage: A Reply to Peter van Inwagen	BRANDON RICKABAUGH AND TODD BURAS	381
Berkeleyan Idealism, Christianity, and the Problem of Evil	JOHN M. DEPOE	401
How Reformation Christians Can Be Catholic (Small "c") Christians	C. STEPHEN EVANS	415
PHILOSOPHICAL NOTES
Absolute Creationism and Divine Conceptualism: A Call for Conceptual Clarity	WILLIAM LANE CRAIG	431
Decretalism and the Laws of Nature: A Response to Jeffrey Koperski	ROBERT LARMER	439
"Made for Another World": C. S. Lewis's Argument from Desire Revisited	DONALD T. WILLIAMS	449
Cartesian Omnipotence	STEPHEN T. DAVIS	455
A Computable Universe?	JOHN WARWICK MONTGOMERY	463
BOOK REVIEWS
William Lane Craig, God over All: Divine Aseity and the Challenge of Platonism	PAUL M. GOULD	469

Erik J. Wielenberg, Robust Ethics: The Metaphysics and Epistemology of Godless Normative Realism	WILLIAM LANE CRAIG	473
Paul K. Moser, The God Relationship: The Ethics for Inquiry about the Divine	TODD R. LONG	478
Gerald Gaus, The Tyranny of the Ideal: Justice in a Diverse Society	ANDREW TSZ WAN HUNG	483
NEWS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS		489

Editor's Introduction

One thing I have enjoyed very much over the last twenty years as editor of Philosophia Christi has been watching the growth in diversity of institutions and global locations from which our articles are coming. The current issue is not even exceptional with regard to its diversity, but it still puts it nicely on display.

Oxford University (Oxford, United Kingdom)
University of Northwestern (St. Paul, MN)
Auburn University (Auburn, AL)
Hope College (Holland, MI)
Biola University (La Mirada, CA)
St. Peter's College (Auckland, New Zealand)
University of Jyvaskyla (Jyvaskyla, Finland)
Baylor University (Waco, TX)
Kingdom Preparatory Academy (Lubbock, TX)
University of New Brunswick (New Brunswick, Canada)
Talbot School of Theology (La Mirada, CA)
Houston Baptist University (Houston, TX)
Toccoa Falls College (Toccoa Falls, GA)
Claremont McKenna College (Claremont, CA)
International Academy (Strasbourg, France)

(Despite the diversity, Texas and California are clearly over represented and we need to put a stop to that—wink.)

Of course these are the articles that made it through the acceptance gauntlet. If we were to look at all the submissions received it has become quite an international parade. Perhaps we should consider a name change to PCI—Philosophia Christi International? But then we would be competing for attention and bandwidth from the Powder Coating Inspectors, the Prestressed Concrete Initiative, and the Pittsburgh Career Institute. Are we up for the competition?

Whether we go that way or not, we are excited to have a growing international constituency that appreciates the journal and sends us the final efforts of their academic labor for publication.

Craig J. Hazen
Biola University